Foreword

Students congregating in the halls, smiling at happy experiences, and scrambling to get to classes on time create the atmosphere of fellowship and frolic which envelopes each student at James A. Gray Senior High School.

Through the use of active pictures and vivid copy, we, the 1962 Blue and Gold staff, have attempted to present a glimpse into the life of the students of Gray.

Cramming for exams, taking special aptitude tests, decorating for social events, cheering at pep rallies, dancing in the gym during lunch, rushing to club meetings, and going quietly to assemblies depict many of the activities in which the students diligently work together.

Highlighting the 1962 school year was the athletic competition in the 4-A Conference, sparked by the receiving of a Good Sportsmanship Award from an opposing team. Other events include the purchase of new uniforms for the band, cheerleaders, and football and basketball teams; advanced classes in English and biology; a new science lab; and the renewal of the Reading Improvement Program.

Devoting their time and patience to the advancement of our education are the members of the faculty who spent endless hours in class discussions and special after-school sessions. Among their other activities were sponsoring clubs, chaperoning dances, and backing student drives.

To boost high ideals and achievement standards, the student organization revised the Honor Code, the basis of life at Gray. Inspiring the student body to support projects of the school and striving to create interest among fellow schoolmates in all student activities encouraged the representatives in their weekly meetings.

To enable the student body to re-create and re-capture these and many other memorable occasions is the principal objective of our book.

Important to every high school student is his community, which provides sources of entertainment, places of interest and educational value, up-to-the-minute news, and effective protection. In return, teenagers perform various services for their neighborhood. Supporting several projects such as the T.B. Christmas Seal Drive, and heart and cancer funds, working as hospital aides, operating bookmobiles, and holding Thanksgiving food collections help repay our city for the many benefits it offers.

"A city founded on co-operation," Winston-Salem, living up to its motto, is a combination of rich tradition and modern industry. Numbers of visitors stop here in order to see Old Salem; Reynolds' Tobacco Company, the largest in the world; and other landmarks. Important products of this prosperous city are textiles, cigarettes; and furniture. The city boasts three colleges: Wake Forest, Salem, and Winston-Salem Teachers' College. At left is a view of the Reynolds' Building in downtown Winston-Salem.

On a day set aside each week young adults forget less important things and worship God. The church offers us guideposts along our paths to keep us from straying in our quest for the right way of life. Home Moravian Church, at left, was dedicated in 1800 by the original settlers of Salem. With faith to lean on, we join others in working toward the common goal of spreading Christian good will throughout the world, for a growing responsibility is being placed on our shoulders: that of maintaining "peace on earth."

In the bustle of school and social life, teenagers can stop to catch their breath only in the relative calm of home. Whether we live in large houses or small apartments, have seven brothers or sisters or none, home is the place where sympathy for our failures or joy for our achievements can be found. Largely dependent upon our training, our future success develops from roots in the home, for this is where we learn the basic fundamentals of life. Urged by concerned parents to increase our education, we are provided a quiet place to read and to study. In most homes there is adequate room for friends to congregate and enjoy lively recreation.

Hot chocolate, pom-poms, and loud yells are happy reminders of football season. This year Gray was a 4-A school for the first time, and fans enthusiastically attended games. In December, thoughts turned to basketball as Grayites, boosted by the newly-formed Parents' Association, rallied to support the winning five until the season's close, March 2. Offered for the first time in many years, golf highlighted the spring athletic program. Athletes also participated in track meets, softball games, and tennis matches. Baseball, probably Gray's most noted sport, continued to excite spirited students.

Willingly we volunteer when jobs are to be done. Anything from acting as office receptionists to serving on the student council and its various departments is accomplished with cheerful co-operation. Unselfishly we contribute time and talents for post-game dances, proms, sale of buttons and programs, and other student projects. By constantly concerning ourselves with the welfare and reputation of the school as a whole, each of us can feel that he is an important part of its function.

Looking forward to the events of the year ahead, we students lined up early August 31. Sun-tanned complexions, lighter hair, and healthful vitality were signs of summer fun and relaxation. Our school welcomed us back as the laughter and confusion of our gay reminiscing and excited planning echoed in the halls. After the first few days were spent in getting organized and acquainted, books were distributed, classes finally settled; and pupils attacked their studies and other responsibilities with renewed vigor and determination.

Curious, we delve into the world of the microscopic in biology classes; and we learn in chemistry, among other lessons, the disillusioning fact that the use of a long, involved formula may result in nothing more than table salt! We spend hours proving and memorizing theorems that guide us through geometry. Ambitious students with the required ability arise early in the morning to study English, chemistry, and biology in advanced classes. Any drudgery in our work is soon forgotten in the memory of fascinating experiments and new ideas.

For most of us learning comes slowly and laboriously. Early morning has found us working on assignments. Many afternoons have been devoted to play rehearsals, make-up tests, and last-minute details of the yearbook. We have sat up long into the quiet night doing research projects, writing themes, and studying for tests; and we have spent entire Saturdays toiling over library books, debate speeches, and college board exams. Our work has not always been a "labor of love," but, as we complete our courses, we gain not only a sense of satisfaction, but a feeling of nostalgia for the days spent in school.

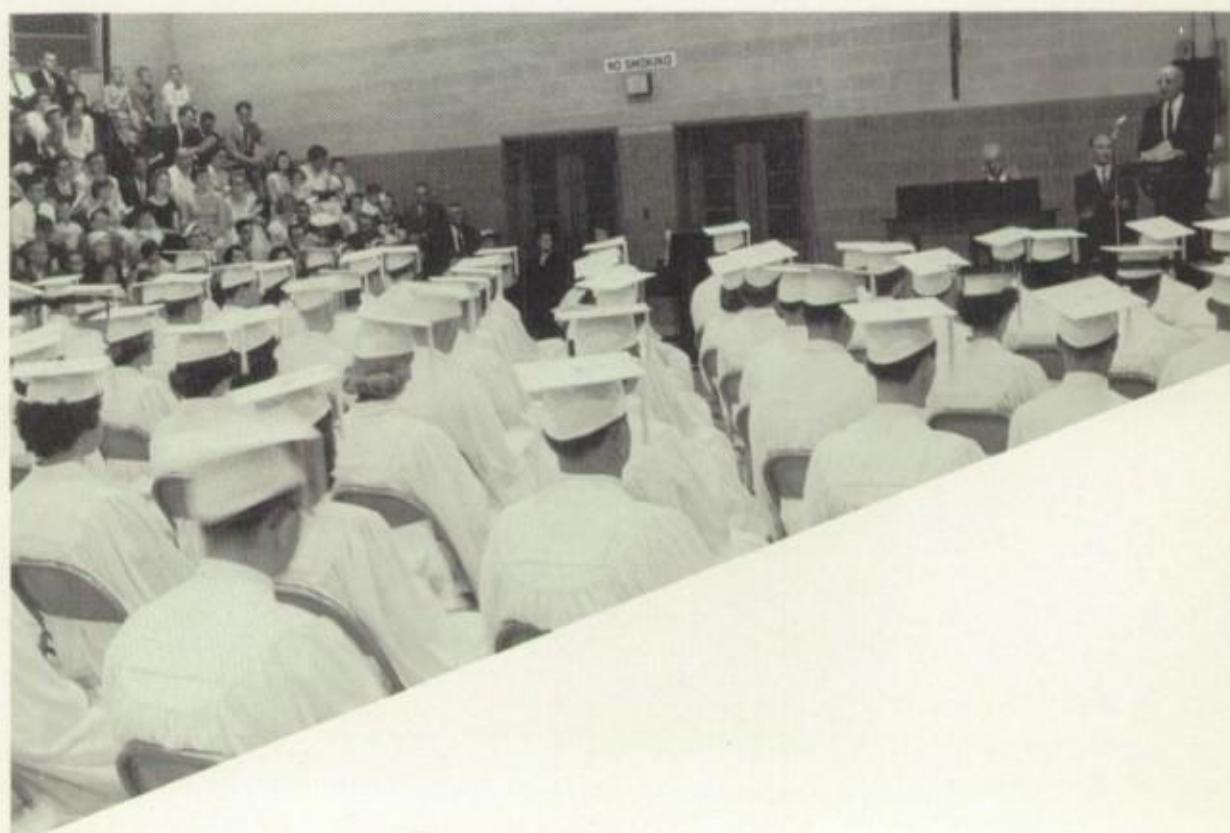

Memories of the dances, sock hops, and proms are some of our happiest. One reason is that we made the necessary plans and carried them out ourselves. Decoration committees transformed the gym into a wonderland of glittering trees for the Christmas Dance, December 16. Celebrated February 19-24, "Twirl Week" was climaxed by a dance, also, when the process of boy-ask-girl was reversed. Upperclassmen anticipated the traditional Junior-Senior Prom by practicing the grand march and making the necessary arrangements. A project of the entire student body was the Spring Prom which annually gives Grayites "spring fever." Seniors attended their last high school festivity, the Senior Prom, in May.

Studious calm, the atmosphere of our school, explodes into life at 3:05 each day. Some of us rush madly from classes to lockers to waiting buses and cars. For others of us the cares of the day are forgotten as we linger to talk, laugh, and discuss events with friends. At times we stay to attend club meetings, planning sessions, or afternoon practices. Then we leave our classmates and books until another day.

Eventually the fun, the proud moments, and the heartbreaks must come to an end. All too soon graduation is upon us, and another class prepares to leave their schoolmates and teachers to step into wider worlds of colleges and careers. Class Day, at which time juniors proudly accept the honored seats of the seniors, brings the traditional class prophecy, last will and testament, and history. Superlatives and mascots, selected by the graduates, are also presented. The important night arrives; and with the joy of accomplishment, the memory of good times, the sorrow of departure, and the hope of the young, seniors finally receive their long-awaited diplomas.

Under the direction of the school board a new language laboratory was offered. Using tape recorders, record players, and other audio aids, students learned the pronunciation of foreign languages. Also, science facilities were increased by the renovation and equipping of a modern biology laboratory.

Mr. Phillip Froelich; Mr. M. C. Benton, Jr.; Mr. Clifford Perry, chairman; Mr. Richard Erwin (row one); Mr. Floyd Burge; Mr. William Knott; and Mr. Rossie Shore (row two) set school policies.

Dr. A. Craig Phillips, superintendent, who began his career in education as a Gray High faculty member; and Dr.

intendent, have signed contracts with the Mecklenburg School System for the coming year. Mr. Marvin Ward, pres-will succeed Dr. Phillips.

In order to inform parents, teachers, and students of important events and decisions concerning the Winston-Salem City Schools, the administration publishes a newspaper, Horizons, which is printed by students in the two-year-old city-county Industrial Education Center. In one issue Mr.
Ward reported plans for three new schools which are to be erected within the next five years. These buildings will make a total of twenty-five elementary, eight junior, and six senior high schools.

At the beginning of the 1961-'62 school term, the P.T.A. executive committee met to revise the constitution and to decide upon the year's theme. A major amendment concerned membership dues, which were raised to one dollar in order to eliminate all money-making projects. Five meetings were held during the year.

The Rev. Clayton Persons, vice-president; Mrs. Reid Perryman, secretary; Mrs. Harold Casey, treasurer; and Mr. Lee H. Kimmons, president, do research before revising the P.T.A. constitution.

spire us to increase our education date equipment and teaching aids.

First program for the year was in the form of an Open House, October 2. Parents received their child's schedule and proceeded to each classroom to meet his teacher. At Family Fun Night, November 6, when families were urged to come together, fellowship was the goal of square-dancing and games. Highlight of the year was the annual band and chorus Christmas Concert, December 4. A Founder's Day program, February 5, began the 1962 P.T.A. meetings and new officers were installed, May 7.

Based on P.T.A. objectives such as: "To bring into closer relation the home and the school that parents and teachers may co-operate intelligently in the training of the child," and the year's theme: "Know your school," programs were planned to increase parent participation.

Mr. Larry Graham, assistant principal, and Mr. Lee H. Kimmons, P.T.A. president, are interviewed concerning future programs by Judy Mathis, student representative and reporter for the Gray Light.

MR. PHILLIP MORRIS

Dedication

Because of his understanding, encouragement, and friendliness, Mr. Phillip Morris, graduate of the class of '54, has endeared himself to each student. His two years as a teacher at Gray have been spiced with a delightful sense of humor. Always ready with a joke or story, his presence is welcomed at any gathering of students, since his droll anecdotes are enjoyed by all. He has spent many hours coaching the varsity baseball team and participating as an enthusiastic line coach during football season. As junior varsity basketball coach, he has reassured and spurred members of the team to do their best. Directing every student in the fundamentals of car driving is another task that he has tackled with efficiency and patience. To Mr. Morris, teacher, friend, and counselor, we, the senior class, dedicate this 1962 edition of the Blue and Gold.

By offering advice and challenging us to do our best,

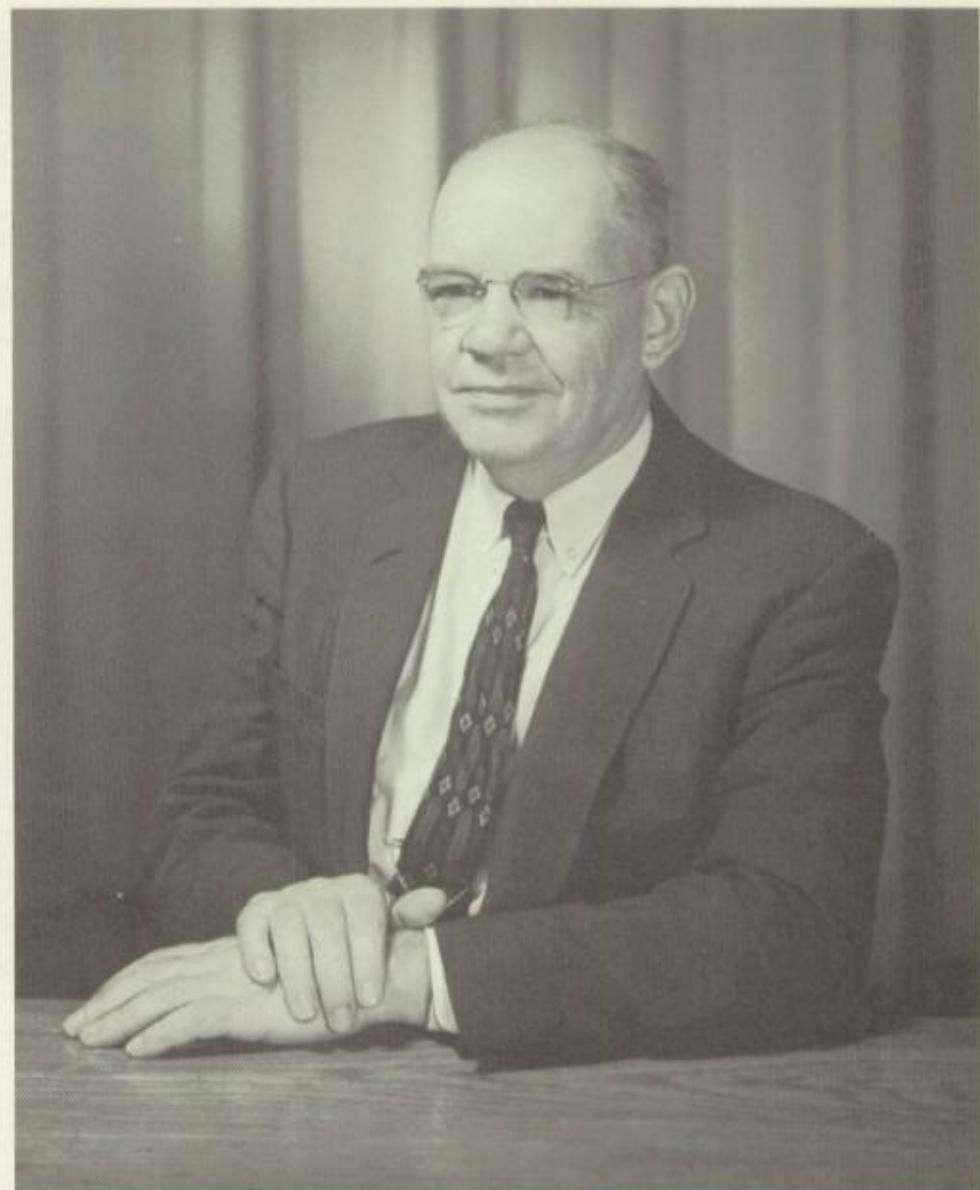

Mr. Morris helps Rodger Bledsoe and Gail Moore with percentages in their mathematics assignment.

Entering the instruction car, Mr. Morris prepares to teach driving fundamentals to waiting students.

Principal

Mr. J. A. Woodward, our principal, receives the respect and gratitude of the students and faculty after another year of dedicated service to our school. His sincere concern for each of us, his timely advice, and his counseling have been the deciding factors which have inspired us to persevere and weather the storms of difficulty and frustrations which come to all. Under his guidance many improvements have been made, such as providing a new biology laboratory and having the campus beautified and furniture refinished. By persistence in his efforts to make Gray High School the best in the area, he has improved the character as well as the physical features of our school. For these accomplishments, Mr. Woodward is to be more than commended: the gratitude of the entire student body and faculty can be shown only by deeds.

Inspired by the eager anticipation of sophomores and the previous accomplishments of upperclassmen, we, 735 strong, began the 1961-'62 school term, August 30. Courses, such as typing, shorthand, woodworking, mechanical drawing, home economics, dramatics, and public speaking, offer early training in possible careers. With the study of the basic subjects of English, history, and biology, we grew steadily in knowledge.

Even though three different grades compose the student body, we are a unit—sharing the bitterness of defeats and the triumph of achievements. Not only is there a close bond among classes but also between the faculty and the students, as both groups have a common goal. This relationship between students and teachers helps to fulfill Gray's purpose—to provide a basic and broad educational program. With the mental and moral training furnished by our school, we take another step toward mature adulthood.

Officers Kay Cansler, secretary; John Reeves, vice-president; Shelia Stewart, treasurer; and Charles Potts, president, anticipate the Class Day Program.

As the year 1961-'62 draws to a close, the senior class looks with mixed emotions upon their final year of high school. The honor of occupying front seats in assemblies, dedicating the yearbook, and presenting a class gift were a few highlights of the year. As the Class Day Scribes related the history and the last will and testament, memories were recalled of hours spent studying Macbeth, the challenge of U. S. History, and the Senior Prom. Outstanding members of the class were recognized by their classmates when superlatives were chosen. Selecting the class motto, flower, colors, mascots, and marshals were other duties the seniors performed with pride. To uphold the standards of the school and to learn as much as possible were the aims of each member of the class. The motto expressed another goal: "The surest way not to fail is to determine to succeed." With much eagerness upperclassmen awaited the long anticipated day—graduation. With heads held high, they received their diplomas and realized that without the expert guidance and inspiration of their teachers, this event would not be possible.

Ralph Cannon, vice-president; Harolene Atwood, secretary; Jenny Linville, treasurer; and Dickie Hanes, president, discuss eligibility for honor societies.

Eagerly juniors awaited the long-anticipated night of their first Junior-Senior Prom, which was held at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in April. Planned by a committee of students and teachers, the affair was chaperoned by the chief junior sponsor, Mrs. Marguerite Brown, and other junior homeroom teachers. Highlights of the year included the receiving of class rings and being eligible to be cheerleaders, senior marshals, and varsity athletes. With this year's excitement now a memory, the juniors both cheerfully and regrettfully anticipate next year, when their high school career will reach its climax.

Jovial juniors gain the title of upperclassmen and become eligible for honor societies and varsity sports.

Fluttering hearts and quivering hands set the stage as deserving juniors were inducted into the Masque and Gavel, Quill and Scroll, and National Honor Society, December 1, January 11, and January 12, respectively. Eligibility into these clubs encouraged juniors to strive vigorously to achieve top grades. Becoming upperclassmen this year, juniors had an opportunity to participate in many clubs and to earn honor point pins. As juniors obtained the honor seats at the front of the school auditorium in June, they suddenly realized that these would be their cherished seats for the next year, when they would be dignified seniors!

Turtles are honorary students of biology!

Lunchtime offers a thirty-five minute break between classes: a time to eat, to study, or to socialize.

Juniors, Betsy Huff, Mary Jo Hutchins, Ralph Cannon, Harolene Atwood, Velt Penley, and Johnny Atkinson practice the grand march.

Janie Cranford is assisted by Judy Bowman in restocking the school store.

Class of '64

For the first time in two years, faces of new sophomores appeared on the steps and in the corridors of Gray High School. Upon all countenances were mixed expressions of pride and confusion as sophs searched for their assigned rooms and scanned the unfamiliar surroundings. However, the sophisters, with the advantage of being the first class with a junior high background, quickly settled into their new routine; and the looks of uncertainty soon became those of achievement. Officers for the combined homerooms were elected October 10.

Vickey Reaves, vice-president; Leslie Self, treasurer; Phyllis McHargue, secretary; and Johnny Whitlatch, president, help classmates to adapt to senior high school practices.

Having been prepared by junior high schools, sophomores

Mr. Robert Crookshank, Mr. Bruce Ayscue (row one), Miss Moselle Stephenson, Mrs. Clara Field, Mrs. Lavenia Robinson, Mrs. Carrie May Allgood, Mrs. Mary Hutchison, Miss Saxon Bray, Miss Daisy Lee Glasgow, Miss Edith Rollins (row two) acquaint students with the curriculum.

Finding themselves in a different world in literature, sophomores delved into the lives of Julius Caesar and Silas Marner. Feverishly they worked on notebooks and projects to meet their deadlines. In biology they had new experiences as they dissected frogs and made collections of leaves. Midway in the year, December 18-20, they were initiated into the rites of exams. Returning to school in January, the four girls with the highest averages in the class were chosen as sophomore pages for the Junior-Senior Prom, held at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in April. Although the evening consisted mainly of checking wraps, they were allowed one dance. When warm weather arrived, many sophomore girls were seen scurrying to the gymnasium and athletic field in an effort to win a coveted place with the cheerleaders and majorettes, while the boys obtained positions on the junior varsity baseball team.

One cannot fully mature with the gaining of knowledge alone, for one must develop spiritually, socially, and physically also. Each organization at Gray has at least one of these ideals as an objective. Eligibility for these clubs depends upon individual requirements.

Making major decisions concerning school functions is the work of the student organization. Other service bodies include the Key Club, Junior and Senior Y-Teens, office pages, High School Red Cross, and library council. The Bible Club offers spiritual guidance and fellowship, as does the newly-formed Young Life Club. Offering opportunity for physical development, the Girls' Athletic Association organizes intramural sports. Increasing school spirit is one objective of cheerleaders, majorettes, and band members. Three clubs have as their purpose to help prepare students for careers in teaching, engineering and science, or homemaking; whereas, honor societies encourage students to achieve in dramatics, public speaking, journalism, and scholastic attainment.

According to the constitution, officers of the student organization must be voted upon before May 15. In a truly democratic manner, patterned after city and state elections, student officers are elected. Each homeroom submits three nominees for each office, and the candidates whose names appear most frequently on the ballots are finalists on the list. Each homeroom member then places his ballot in a designated box.

Row one: D. Butler, R. Sanders, C. March, J. Bowman, S. Hartis, L. Thompson, J. Thompson, W. Johnson, E. Moreau. Row two: K. Bovender, B. Masters, J. Cain, T. Williams, B. Cavanaugh, C. Long.

Superintendents, chosen because of their abilities as good leaders, were announced by the president, October 26. The student organization is patterned upon a business corporation, having officers, board of directors, superintendents, and workers, who meet Monday mornings to discuss school problems. The twenty-seven departments serve the school by heading various service projects and maintaining a closer relationship among students and teachers. Through personal contact the Personal Relations Department attempts to get students to observe the school rules and regulations. As a result of their good influence, a minimum of violations reporting is necessary. All students must show passes to the students who compose the Hall Monitor Department. In order to strengthen the bonds of friendship, the Public Relations Department sends cards to ill students and faculty members, and notes of congratulations to deserving groups or individuals. Mr. E. E. Todd, Jr., is adviser for the organization.

Students head various departments of the school government.

Besides welcoming new students, the Hospitality Department also meets visiting teams and cheerleaders and distributes fruit to the basketball players. Advertising special dates with gay signs, the Poster Department maintains a well-informed student body. The Interior Department is responsible for the cleanliness of the cafeteria, stairways, and homerooms; and the Campus Department, composed of homeroom representatives, keeps the grounds clean. Because of the Traffic Department the halls and stairways are quiet and orderly. At lunch time, music for dancing is provided by the Recreation Department. Members of the Supply Room Department distribute instructional material to the teachers. For the benefit of those who wish to buy refreshments, the snack bar opens at recess. Raising the flag in the mornings and lowering it in the evenings is the responsibility of the flag boys. Highlight of the year for the superintendents was the receiving of the Student Council pins.

HOMEROOM

Row one: J. Carter, F. Walser, N. Bowman, T. McKoon, B. Cavanaugh. Row two: J. Shamel, C. Potts, L. Kimmons, R. Logan, J. Davis, S. Magaraci, R. Wilson.

School spirit was sparked by the Christmas Dance, sponsored by the student organization, under the direction of Mr. E. E. Todd, December 16. Later projects were Student Day, Twirl Week and the Spring Prom. Meeting each Monday morning at activity period, superintendents of various departments, homeroom presidents, and council members discussed problems and tried to find ways of solving them. Suggestions and ideas of students were transmitted to the council by the homeroom representatives.

After obtaining data for stories, journalism students frantically rolled paper into typewriters and turned their ideas into words in order to meet the first Gray Light deadline, October 16. Then they proceeded thoughtfully to write "heads" and identifications. Stories and "heads" were corrected by proofreaders, and tense fingers again danced along typewriter keys. Work having been completed, smiles of relief and contentment again brightened the countenances of journalism students, who finally sent the paper to press. Breaking the monotony of hard work were seasonal parties given in the classroom.

Twenty-one inductees proudly accepted the responsibilities of being members of the Gamma Chapter of the National Honor Society at the induction, January 12. Following the ceremony, a reception was held by the members for the inductees, their parents, and the faculty. Requirements of the society are outstanding scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Service projects were ushering at assemblies and holding the "Minute of Prayer" every morning. Three members attended the State Convention, April 27-29, at Chapel Hill. Miss Daisy Lee Glasgow served as State co-ordinating sponsor.

Tense expectation prevailed at the annual Quill and Scroll induction, January 11. As in-coming members took the organization oath, memories of proofing, writing copy for the yearbook, and the frantic rush to meet deadlines filled their minds. Inductees promptly rose from their seats to take the long, yet proud walk to the front of the auditorium, where fourteen were tapped by old members. Miss Saxon Bray showed slides which were taken while she was in India last summer. Eight students' faces beamed with pride and pleasure as they became new members of the Masque and Gavel, December 1, at which time the finalists for the World Peace oratorical contest presented their speeches. Qualifications for membership in the society are superior work in speech, "B" subject average, and approval by the faculty and sponsor, Mrs. Lavenia Robinson.

Thespians, a national honor society for dramatic students only, held its annual induction, December 8, highlighted by The Shoemaker's Wife, a one-act play by David Thompson. Students may obtain the ten points required for membership by acting, working backstage, and helping with production.

Row one: K. Rothrock, D. Stinson, S. Martin. Row two: J. Woodle, B. Byrd, K. Stewart, B. Hartman. Row three: V. Angel, G. Johnson, B. Shulley, C. Wood.

Sponsored by Mr. Thomas Elmore, the Dramateers presented Anne of Green Gables, a three-act drama, to the student body at an assembly, February 10. The Shoemaker's Wife, a one-act comedy, was presented during the fall. The Dramatics Department works energetically in class, as well as on the stage, pantomiming, reviewing plays, holding panel discussions, playing charades, and impersonating television characters. Besides acting, the Dramateers are taught different techniques in costuming, directing, and lighting. Voice development, make-up, and publicity are other important elements that are studied.

Henry McCarthy, as Hans; Leroy Kimmons, a customer; Anne Sink, Hans' wife, rehearse a scene from the one-act play, The Shoemaker's Wife.

Sparking the fall season for the Future Teachers of America, a tea was held in honor of Mrs. Phebe Emmons, consultant for the North Carolina F.T.A., November 29. Teachers and members alike eagerly awaited the annual Teacher-Appreciation Day, at which time teachers received recognition for their patient services. Members also attended the District Teachers Meeting at Moore School, October 6. Eligibility requirements are a desire to attend college or become a teacher and the maintenance of a "C" subject average and an "E" on deportment. Students and teachers who attended the annual Key Club vs. Faculty basketball game, January 16, were thoroughly entertained by this hilarious spectacle. The club undertook many worthwhile projects during the year, including those of heading a food drive at Thanksgiving and operating the snack bar. The club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, is headed by Mr. Bruce Ayscue. Requirements are an "E" on deportment, a passing average, and approval by members and teachers.

Foreign language students study of the Roman and Spanish peoples

Breaking a pinata at the annual Christmas party, December 13, was an eagerly anticipated event for the Spanish Club. Members could be seen frantically scrambling around on hands and knees gathering the goodies from the broken pinata. Monthly meetings ranged from cooking Spanish food at the annual Spanish dinner in the early spring to visits from Spanish-speaking guests. Their sponsor, Mrs. Carrie May Allgood, supervised meetings. Purpose of the organization is to acquire, in an entertaining manner, knowledge of Spain, the people, and their environment. Thus the Spanish Club members have a gay time while learning.

Great excitement prevailed among Latin II students as club pins were distributed, November 17. Promoting understanding of the language and the customs of the Roman people was the main objective of the club, sponsored by Mrs. Eloise Curlee. Monthly meetings were held in homes of members. At one gathering Miss Daisy Lee Glasgow, head of the History Department, discussed her summer trip to Italy. Other highlights were the annual Christmas party, December 11, at Paulette Todd's home, and the singing of carols in Latin during class. The year was climaxed by the study of Julius Caesar, an autobiography written in Latin.

"Trick or treat" was observed by the Junior Y-Teens in quite a different way from the customary method, October 31. Instead of begging for sweets for themselves, they asked donations for UNICEF. Enthusiastically, they went from door to door receiving "contribution treats," which amounted to $158.34. In the whirl of other activities was a cake sale, held at Parkway Plaza, November 18. They also paid their annual visit to the Yoder Home for the Aged, where occupants were entertained by a talent show and presented small favors. Other enjoyable events were a pajama party at the "Y" in January and a February Valentine dance. Climaxing the year's work was a trip to New York City, December 27-31.

Senior Y-Teens launched a year of rewarding work, service, and fun with a bake sale October 15. For their service project, the Y-Teens contributed their spare time to help keep the campus clean and to assist in the concession stand at home basketball games. Donating money to other countries for the development of Y-Teen Clubs, selling pom-poms at sports events, sponsoring a New Year's Dance, and attending the Senior Y-Teen District Convention in High Point, February 17, are other activities which made up a year of gratifying accomplishments. Holding their meetings once a month, the Y-Teens were willingly aided in their endeavors by Mrs. R. W. McGee, adviser, and Miss Mary Wiese, sponsor.

Welcoming the new year's work enthusiastically, the Library Council had a get-acquainted party at the home of Mrs. Shirley Doty, new librarian, November 24. Consisting of thirty-two members, they performed the duties of keeping discipline, reading shelves, preparing colorful bulletin boards, working at the circulation desk, processing, and collecting for overdue books. Bright and colorful bulletin boards made the library an attractive and comfortable place for the students to scan the shelves, find an interesting book, and relax.

Mr. James Hall, director of the All-America City Chorus, accompanies one of his three classes at Gray.

In conjunction with choruses from Reynolds, Konnoak, Wiley, Hill, and Dalton, the Gray singers presented "A Community Christmas Concert," in the Reynolds Auditorium, December 15. Proceeds from the program were used to support the chorus's goal of a trip to New York City. Beginning the program with a procession of lights and the singing of "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," the four hundred participants sang "Carol of the Bells," "Jesu Bambino," and other seasonal favorites.

Pleasing routines of cheerleaders and majorettes

Barbara Cavanaugh, Janice Harris, and Alice Jones put up a bulletin board in the cafeteria to advertise the Key Club-Faculty game.

Bursting with pride, the cheerleaders proudly displayed their originally designed basketball uniforms, December 20. Anticipation mounted as the girls awaited the annual football banquet, November 17, to honor players, coaches, and cheerleaders. Representing the younger set, Patti Kelley served as mascot for the sports program. Boosting support for the 4-A 'Hounds, decorating goal posts, and cheering at games were among the enjoyable responsibilities of the squad, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Eloise Curlee and Miss Maryann Johnson.

Proudly, the majorettes took their place at the head of the band for Winston-Salem's annual Christmas parade, November 25. The graceful strutting and skillful twirling by the majorettes added color and excitement to pep meetings and football games. Participating in such half-time features as "Cowboy Joe," "Let's Dance," and "The Four Seasons," the "high-steppers" provided enjoyable shows for the student body. To prepare for spectacular performances in the fall, they spent hours practicing and creating routines during the summer.

ATHLETICS

Since we are young, we are active; hence, we should keep our bodies in the best physical condition possible. Physical education, which juniors and sophomores are required to take, is a class in which we gain physical fitness through exercise, skill tests, and hygiene lessons. Students participate in after-school sports such as volleyball, shuffleboard, and ping-pong. These tournaments offer, not only the chance to improve physical dexterity, but also the enjoyment of fellowship with those who share a common interest. Athletes with outstanding ability in speedball, football, basketball, softball, baseball, and track join varsity and junior varsity squads to compete with representatives from other schools. Through strenuous drills and long practice sessions, Gray High players give stiff competition to the opposing teams.

In order to pay for new uniforms for the basketball team and the team-supporting band, students launched a community-wide candy sale. The athletic department was strengthened with the increase of funds and an addition to the coaching staff. Taking pride in their teams' skill and good sportsmanship, Grayites were loyal to each team, whether winning or losing, until the final whistle of the last game blew.

Highlighting the softball season was a victory for the Gray-houndettes over their arch-rival Reynolds High by a score of 19-5. Hanes, the other cross-city competitor, defeated Gray in two contests, 50-11 and 7-5, to win the city championship.

Clad in Gray High basketball uniforms for the first time, the jayvees, clashing with the Gastonia quint, were turned back, 55-31. As the season progressed, many losses, due mainly to lack of actual experience, were sustained by the sophomore squad. Two of these setbacks were suffered in close games at the hands of cross-town rivals, Hanes and Reynolds. Other defeats were to Mineral Springs, High Point, Salisbury, Lexington, and Greensboro Senior High. The junior Grayhounds were coached by Mr. Phillip Morris.

VARSITY

Hanes, Sept. 8: At the kickoff of the gridiron season, the 'Hounds met the high-spirited Hanes Dragons, with the teams fighting to a scoreless deadlock. In the defensive battle, Leroy Kimmons and Dickie Hanes were Gray standouts. John Reeves, 230-pound tackle, was sidelined because of an injured shoulder.

Reynolds, Sept. 22: Clashing with their traditional rival, the Reynolds Demons, the Grayhounds were over-powered 21-6 in the twenty-fourth contest between the two teams. This year is the first that Gray and Reynolds have been in the same conference, as the 'Hounds moved up to 4-A for the '61 season.

Reidsville Oct. 6: After suffering three straight defeats, the victory-starved 'Hounds erupted for a 27-0 triumph over 3-A Reidsville. Gray netted 235 yards rushing and 119 passing. Wingback Wayne Simmons scored twice for Gray on two-yard plunges, and speedy Dave Kelley got off a 70-yard T. D. run.

Greensboro Senior, Oct. 14: Greensboro, the top team in the Central 4-A Conference, shut out the 'Hounds, 14-0. Gray, relying upon an aerial game, completed only one of nine passes, while the Greensboro Whirlies gained 318 yards in a stunning ground attack. W. A. Collins was tops in defense for Gray.

Salisbury, Oct. 19: Gray won a statistical duel over Salisbury, but suffered a 7-6 defeat. This was the second straight year that the Yellowjackets have edged Gray by one point. Joe Crater and Fred Walser were Gray's defensive standouts, whereas Wayne Simmons and Steve Lewis shared offensive honors.

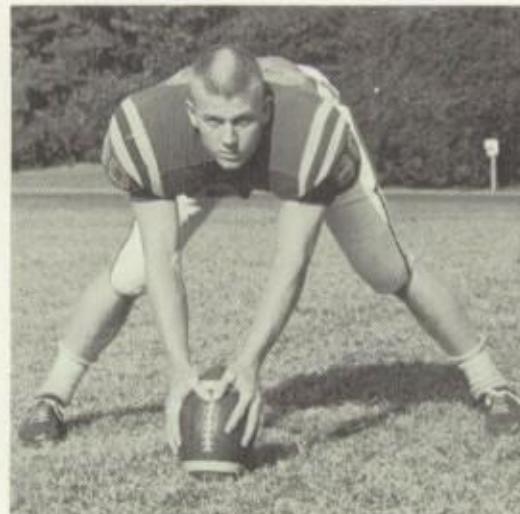

Lexington, Nov. 8: In the last game of the season, the determined 'Hounds finally gained a conference victory, a 27-7 romp over 4-A Lexington. Key players in the 'Hounds' win were John Reeves, Wayne Simmons, Dave Kelley, W. A. Collins, and Harold Stephens. Ralph Cannon directed the varsity unit.

Bouncing balls, swishing nets, and screaming fans signified the beginning of another thrill-packed basketball season, December 1. Fortunately, the team, directed by Coach J. C. Thomas, was composed of eight returning lettermen and five well-prepared members from last year's junior varsity. For the first time the hardwood squad faced competition as a member of the strenuous 4-A Conference. The Grayhounds traveled to Gastonia for the first game, only to have the Greenies squeeze by them, 48-42. The leading scorer for Gray was co-captain Olon Shuler, who captured 18 points during the sizzling meet. In the next contest the 'Hounds slid by the Hanes Dragons, 34-33, in a fast-moving non-conference outing.

Avenging their first defeat by Gastonia, the 'Hounds overpowered Gastonia, 50-37, December 12. Playing in home territory, Gray's smooth teamwork pushed three players into two-column scoring. High scorers were Olon Shuler, 13; Robert Hege, 12; and Kent Crim, 12. Two dog teams, Gray's Hounds and Mineral Spring's Bulldogs, scrapped, December 21. Four hard fought quarters were climaxed when the Bulldogs seized the lead and won, 49-35. During the first conference meet, January 5, Olon Shuler ran up 20 points and led the team to a 45-42 victory over High Point. The cagers again matched plays with Mineral Springs, January 6. Gray, led by Harold Stephens, sank 40 points but lost to the Bulldogs by 12 points.

TRACK

Directed by Coach Homer Thompson, the Gray cinder men, in their seventh year of competition, completed the season by defeating Morehead, 91-13, April 27. In the meet the 'Hounds track men took first place in every event. Other teams losing to Gray were Page, 68-45; Hanes, 76-27; and Southwest, 63-48. Spectators eagerly watched individuals sprinting the 100 and 220-yard dashes, running the 440 and 880-yard, the mile, and the mile-relay; hopping over high and low hurdles; leaping in broad jumps; vaulting over high-jump poles; and hurling discs and shot puts. Dave Kelley, Harold Stephens, and Thomas Wingo were top scorers.

FEATURES

With the attainment of various goals and honors, individuals again brought an air of distinction to Gray. Creating prize-winning speeches and art work, students were recognized for their efforts. Three boys were selected for community, school, and church work to represent Gray for the annual Triangle Award, sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. In the field of sports two boys skilled in football were placed on the all-conference team, whereas on the basis of scholarship, pages were chosen to serve at the Junior-Senior Prom. Good citizenship was the deciding factor in the selection of Junior Rotarians and D.A.R. Good Citizen.

Since the path leading to accomplishment is long and tedious, students welcome the highlights Gray affords them throughout the year. Basketball, football, and band homecoming contests and dances are reigned over by queens chosen in school-wide polls. Another relished break in the monotony of continuous studying is provided by the Christmas dance and the Spring, Junior-Senior, and Senior proms. Also featured in the spring are "Twirp" Week and Teacher Appreciation, student-teacher, and Blue and Gold days.

Outstanding students inspire fellow

Eager hard-working students found their efforts not in vain when they received various honors. For outstanding character and citizenship three students were named Optimist Civitan Award recipients and Girls' and Boys' State Representatives. Honor point pins for earning 200 service points, the World Peace Oratorical medal, and art awards were received by those doing superior individual work. The senior class selected seven juniors to serve as marshals at class day and graduation exercises, and beauty queens reigned proudly over football and basketball homecoming games.

classmates to strive for set goals.

Students continued to win honors throughout the year. Five students were named D.A.R. Good Citizen and Junior Rotarians for their excellent characters and good citizenship. With the 1960-'61 edition of the Blue and Gold receiving a "Medalist" rating, the Journalism Department continued to achieve. Two outstanding football players were added to the all-conference team, and four sophomores with superior scholastic averages were selected to serve as pages at the Junior-Senior Prom. Once again beauty played its part in the selection of the band homecoming queen.

Kay Bledsoe, 1961 Blue and Gold copy editor, is proud of the "Medalist" award.

Because of scholarship, Linda Wood, Linda Thompson, Jenny Linville, and Billie Masters were chosen as sophomore pages to serve in the cloak room at the Junior-Senior Prom.

Leroy Kimmons and Olon Shuler study notes that they took during Boys' State meetings last summer.

Unknown to most students were the plans of the Optimists to present an award to an exceptional Grayite. An assembly was called November 17, at which time an Optimist presented the trophy on the basis of scholastic achievement, sports participation, leadership, and citizenship. Another outstanding student represented Gray at the Boys' State Convention at the University of North Carolina last summer.

Janie Cranford, Dottie Mahaffey, Ann Knott, Wayne Johnson (row one); Robert Sanders, Linda Beane, and Charles Potts (row two) are other honor point pin recipients.

Honor point pins are awarded to those students who gain 200 points through participation in various activities; such as, athletics, student organization and publications work, dramatics, chorus, and band participation. In addition, scholarship and perfect attendance give points. Junior Rotarians, who are chosen on the basis of all-around school participation and service, attend weekly business meetings of the Rotary Club.

Jerry

Nice being in the same home room with you this year. I wish you lots of luck next year in Bookkeeping II next year.

Wolfgang Conrad

Gerry,
Keep happy and for lord's sake... never forget our rocking times in English & homeroom. Poor Mrs.
Brown & Miss Triplet! Hope to see you lots next year... at ball games school, & otherwise. Remember,

Jerry, it's really been a pleasure to be with you. We had some good times together. Do pay me a visit if you're ever in some good times there too and at the apartments.

To say off to say off to you with my friends. I hope we get in Sorry I've been having a nervous time lately. It's my first year of high school and I'm not doing so well. I'm trying to stay positive and I hope you understand. I'm going to be a good friend to you.

Jerry,
It's been a grand

Jerry,
It's a wonder that we haven't blown up the lab, but it is still standing. Best of luck on your Chemistry exam.

Jerry,
How are you coming? Well Jerry it has been a long hard climb but will make it. You have been a few upsets. You come as often as you can, if not write. Good luck to a great year.

Sam (Hewicore) forever

Jerry,
I have enjoyed being in your class. Good luck next year. Your friend always,

Jerry!
It has been ever so nice to have a real sweet boy in bookkeeping class. Lots of luck in the future.

Jerry,
Well we've had to put up with dear ol' "Hutch" together. I reckon if we get by her we'll be alright. I'll look forward to seeing you this summer.
Best of luck in the future.

Many thanks for your many hours of work and effort. I enjoyed your class a lot and learned a lot from you. I hope you will be successful in your future endeavors.
